Dear Mr. Cutler,

I first came across 碰見; 被理解; 偶然碰見 Cutler's Rare Books at the Antiquarian 買賣故舊書籍 Book Fair in California last year. After noting the high quality and wide range of your products, I decided to purchase several books from your online store. As I am not interested in having damaged books in my collection, I carefully read the descriptions of their condition before making my purchase. I was assured that the books were undamaged and in their original condition. When I examined the books on their arrival, I discovered that the Norris volume had been sloppily 懶散 glued 膠水黏 and rebound 修補 within the last several years.

E-Mail Message

To: Ben Greenidge

From: Nirmala Deokaran

Subject: Request

Date: 13 January

Dear Mr. Greenidge,

I kindly request that management consider entering our company in the CASATO Virtual Business Tournament. The competition, organized by the Caribbean & South American Trade Organization (CASATO), requires participants to develop and implement business strategies that ensure the long-term stability and continuity of an imaginary company.

Participation in this event could be highly beneficial to our company. Though many tournament participants occupy non-decision-making positions in their organization, the contest demands that they apply a broad range of leadership practices. In the process, most become more appreciative of the day-to-day realities and complexities of managing an actual company. Moreover, they tend to apply the skills acquired or refined during the competition such as collaboration, analysis, and problem-solving—in actual work situations. Additionally, participation in the event may increase our company's profile, opening up new markets for our products. Roughly six months after last year's tournament, about one-third of the 70 companies that had taken part in that event reported an increase in regional business activities.

Details about the tournament are available at www.casato.org/events/tournament_information.
